

At no time today has the flow of gas from Algeria to Spain via Medgaz been interrupted

Madrid, July 24, 2022. In the Spanish Gas System there has been no effect on the security of supply, there has been no technical reason for this situation, nor has any action been required to resolve it.

This midday, according to information received from Medgaz, during routine maintenance work at the Beni Saaf Compression Station, there was a two-hour temporary stoppage of flows from the Algerian plant to the Almeria International Connection.

This has led to a decrease - but not a cessation - in the flows entering Spain via this International Connection. The problem has been solved and flows are recovering normally. The minimum flow rate was 704,000 Nm/h
